

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

This research is divided into two sections the first section provides the conclusion that summarizes the mind findings and discussions of study. The second section provides suggestions and recommendations addressed to future researcher and the readers based on the results of this research.

A. Conclusion

Based on the research problem discussed in Chapter I and the findings presented in Chapter IV, this research examines two key aspects of Code Switching in Layangan Putus Series. First, it examines the types of Code Switching by using Hoffman theory as cited in Halim's article and second, this research analyzes the factors motivating Code Switching based on Apple and Musyken's theory as cited in Sahira's article, the research examines episode 5, 6 and 7 selected from a total of ten episodes. Findings show three types of Code Switching: Inter Sentential (43 times), Emblematic (22 times) and Intra Sentential (23 times), totaling 88 dialogues. Five out six motivating factors were found: Expressive (43 times), Phatic (25 times), Directive (10 times), Referential (9 times), and poetic (1 time) with Expressive factor being the most dominant. These findings indicate that the Code Switching in this Series shows the characters feeling, emotional and thought and also mirrors the linguistic lifestyle of a modern Indonesian bilingual society, where switching between English and Indonesian is natural and integrated into their daily life.

B. Suggestion

Based on the findings and conclusions of this research, the writer would like to offer several suggestions for the readers and the future researcher who interested in the topic of Code Switching. First, since this research focused only on analysing the types and factor of Code Switching in selected episodes of the Layangan Putus Series, future researcher encouraged to explore other aspects of Code Switching, such as its impact on meaning, audience perception or meaning. They may expand the scope by analysing other episodes or uses other series to gain a broader perspective on Code Switching. Second, the writer hopes that readers will approach the topic of Code Switching with open mind and critical, as this phenomenon to evolve along with languages in society. Lastly it is expected that this research can gives benefit and useful as a reference for student and future researchers that interested in the filed of linguistic, the writer welcomes feedback and suggestions that may could improve its quality and depth of future linguistic studies.
